

Awesome Science Media Presents:

The Receding Floodwaters

A Flood Geology Series Documentary

Documentary Summary

Researcher and scientist Michael J. Oard uses his knowledge of the Ice Age and Missoula Flood to lay out his case for a Global Flood. He shares how many geologic features on the surface of the earth just can't be explained through slow and gradual processes, but rather, one worldwide Flood. These features include water and wind gaps, the continental shelves, submarine canyons, planation surfaces, pediments, and the spread of exotic rocks. His convincing evidence will challenge conventional thinking, showing how the biblical record makes much more sense of the evidence.
